

Images of Haverhill Schools Project

Year 6 pupils from Chalkstone Middle School at work with the 'then and now' photo booklet on Victorian Haverhill, September 2004

Below: Images from the 'then and now' booklet

Above: Haverhill Railway Station

Above: Where the Railway Station used to be

As part of the Local Heritage Initiative project, Chalkstone Middle School used photographs from the History Group's collection to study Victorian Haverhill. Lisa Kemp, Chalkstone's office assistant, took photos of the same locations pictured in old photographs to make 'then and now' booklets. Students used 19th century maps along with the booklets to locate the places pictured and compare present day and Victorian Haverhill. After taking a walk around town, the children studied the old photos again. They were particularly interested to note similarities and differences between the old and new.

Above: an example of the work produced by pupils in their study of Victorian Haverhill

St Edmundsbury
BOROUGH COUNCIL

Local Heritage initiative

HAVERHILL & DISTRICT
LOCAL HISTORY
CENTRE