

VISIT MARKET WEIGHTON, THE BIRTHPLACE OF GIANT BRADLEY

Market Weighton is a charming medieval town at the heart of the East Riding of Yorkshire, just off the A1079, midway between York and Hull. It was, in 1787, the birthplace of William 'Giant' Bradley who, at 7'9" (2.37m) is still recorded as the tallest ever Englishman.

The Market Weighton Civic Society have created a Heritage Trail to take you around the Town, guided by our Giant's footsteps. Collect a free colour brochure from local outlets to help you follow The Trail and identify places and buildings of interest.

Before, during or after your stroll along The Trail, take time to call in at one of our inns, restaurants or cafes for a refreshing break. We look forward to seeing you soon

The Giant Bradley Heritage Trail was funded by the Local Heritage Initiative, the Heritage Lottery Fund, Nationwide Building Society and the Countryside Agency, with further financial assistance from the Market Weighton Community Charity Shop. The Market Weighton Civic Society wishes to express its gratitude to these organisations.
